

Factory that manufactures explosion-proof distribution boxes

AI Overview

Explosion-proof distribution boxes are manufactured by specialized companies such as BARTEC, Extol International, and Shengyiex, offering certified solutions for hazardous environments. Leading Manufacturers BARTEC designs and produces customized explosion-proof solutions for energy distribution in safety-critical industrial applications. Their products cover a wide range of protection types, including Ex d (flameproof), Ex e (increased safety), Ex i (intrinsically safe), and Ex p (pressurized housing). BARTEC offers low- and medium-voltage power handling solutions suitable for Zone 1 hazardous environments, with global certifications and design flexibility for harsh industrial conditions. Extol International supplies control panels and distribution boards for hazardous areas, providing ATEX-certified explosion-proof panels suitable for Zone 1 (21) and Zone 2 (22) environments. Their products are available in materials such as stainless steel, aluminum, and cast iron, with IP42 to IP66 ratings for indoor and outdoor applications. Shengyiex (SEXESW) manufactures explosion-proof distribution boxes for Zones 1, 2, 21, and 22, designed for oil refineries, chemical plants, and other high-risk industries. Their SEM(D) series and other models feature dual-structure safety, multi-circuit chambers, and robust materials including stainless steel, carbon steel, and fiberglass-reinforced polyester. These products comply with GB/T3836 and IEC/EN60079 standards, covering gas groups IIA-IIC and dust environments. Key Considerations When selecting a manufacturer, consider: Certifications: Look for ATEX, IECEx, and NEMA ratings to ensure compliance with international safety standards. Materials: Stainless steel, aluminum, and GRP provide corrosion resistance and mechanical strength. Application-specific design: Choose enclosures tailored to the hazardous zone, load...
