

Fire protection distribution boxes

AI Overview

Fire protection distribution boxes are available directly from manufacturers like Spelsberg, ABB, and BOXCO, offering certified fire-resistant enclosures with ratings from E30 to E90. Leading Manufacturers and Products Spelsberg specializes in high-quality cable junction and surface-mounted distribution boards designed for fire protection. Their WKE series offers electrical intrinsic fire resistance between 30 and 90 minutes (E30–E90) and complies with DIN 4102 Part 12, with VDE and building supervisory approvals. These boxes are made from heat- and fire-resistant materials sourced from reputable suppliers, ensuring both safety and durability. ABB provides a range of fire protection enclosures and sub-distribution boards, including wall-mounted and floor-standing models. Their products meet DIN 4102 Part 2 standards (F30/F90) and maintain functionality under fire conditions (E30/E90, I30/I90). ABB enclosures feature fireproof materials, ventilation systems that close automatically during fire, and multiple mounting options for flexible installation. BOXCO offers flame-retardant terminal block boxes and halogen-free junction boxes with pre-mounted seals. These enclosures are approved for electrical function maintenance according to DIN 4102 Part 12, with E30–E90 fire resistance classes. They include integrated terminal blocks, IP66/67 protection, and robust mounting options suitable for industrial environments. UGA supplies ready-to-install combination bulkheads (Kombibox S/S+ and R6/R6+) for walls and ceilings, supporting F90 fire resistance in solid and lightweight partitions. These systems are designed for symmetrical or centered installation and are suitable for both individual and group cable penetrations.
