

High-quality Southern European electrical distribution box manufacturers

AI Overview

Leading Southern European manufacturers include Delvalle Box (Spain), IDE Electric (Spain), and DKC Europe (Italy), offering customized and certified electrical distribution solutions.

Key Manufacturers

Delvalle Box (Spain) Delvalle Box specializes in stainless steel electrical enclosures and boxes, providing solutions for industrial, outdoor, and corrosive environments. They offer customized products according to technical specifications or functional needs, with IP65/IP68 and ATEX certifications. Their production process allows for short lead times, scalability from prototypes to large series, and rigorous quality control, ensuring reliability and compliance with European standards.

IDE Electric (Spain) IDE Electric manufactures assembled and wired distribution bases compliant with REBT: 2002 standards. Their products use high-durability halogen-free plastics and cover a wide range of amperages (10–125 A) and voltages (24–500 V), with protection ratings from IP44 to IP67, suitable for both residential and industrial applications.

DKC Europe (Italy) DKC Europe is a leading Italian manufacturer of cable tray systems and energy distribution solutions. With strategic acquisitions of Italian companies, DKC provides a comprehensive range of electricity transport and distribution systems for civil and industrial infrastructures, supporting international projects and large-scale installations.

Additional Resources For a broader selection of suppliers across Southern Europe, the Volza EU supplier database lists over 21,000 electrical distribution box manufacturers, including verified export data, shipment volumes, and direct contacts for procurement purposes. This resource allows sourcing managers to assess supplier reliability, scale, and long-term partnership potential.
