

How much does an antioxidant cable tray cost

AI Overview

Antioxidant or corrosion-resistant cable trays typically cost between $10 and $50 per meter, depending on material, coating, and environmental requirements. Price Range by Material

Stainless Steel Trays: Highly corrosion-resistant, ideal for harsh or chemical environments, costing around $25–$50 per meter due to durability and resistance to oxidation.

Aluminum Trays: Lightweight and rust-proof, suitable for humid or coastal areas, generally priced $20–$30 per meter.

FRP (Fiberglass Reinforced Plastic) Trays: Offer excellent corrosion resistance in aggressive environments, ranging $10–$50 per meter depending on size and specifications.

Galvanized Steel with Coatings: Pre-galvanized or hot-dip galvanized trays provide moderate corrosion protection, costing $10–$25 per meter.

Factors Affecting Cost

Tray Type: Ladder trays are more expensive but support heavy cables; perforated or wire mesh trays are cheaper and suitable for lighter loads.

Coating and Finish: Powder coating, HDG, or specialized antioxidant treatments increase upfront costs but extend lifespan.

Installation and Labor: Skilled labor, mounting hardware, and site conditions can significantly affect total project cost.

Order Quantity: Bulk purchases often reduce per-meter costs, while custom sizes or fittings may increase them.

Shipping and Location: Heavier trays or remote delivery locations can add to the landed cost.

Cost-Saving Tips

Opt for modular or snap-on systems to reduce installation time and labor costs. Buy in bulk and consolidate shipments to lower transportation expenses. Choose the appropriate material for the environment to avoid overpaying for unnecessary corrosion resistance.

In summary, antioxidant cable trays are a premium option for corrosion protection, with prices ranging from $10 to $50 per meter, influenced by material, coating, type, and installation requirements.
