

Ireland Optical Cable Header Manufacturer

AI Overview

HELU Ireland, SPEED Electronics, Cleveland Cable, and Alltec are key providers of optical cable headers and fiber optic solutions in Ireland. HELU Ireland, established in 2023 in Baldoye, North County Dublin, is the Irish subsidiary of HELU GmbH, a globally recognized cable manufacturer with over 40 years of experience. They offer a wide range of cables, wires, and specialized solutions, including fiber optics, data and network infrastructure, and cable accessories. HELU Ireland provides technical design support and innovative solutions for complex projects, making them a strong choice for industrial and commercial optical cable header requirements.

SPEED Electronics, based in Ennis, specializes in cable harness assemblies and fiber patch cables, including duplex patch cables and fixed fiber-optic cabling. They manufacture SPEEDflex IDC connectors and offer customized cabling solutions for high- and low-temperature applications. Their expertise in customer-specific wiring and fiber optic assemblies makes them suitable for projects requiring tailored optical cable headers.

Cleveland Cable operates across the UK and Ireland, supplying a comprehensive range of electrical and specialist cables, including cable accessories. They provide BASEC-approved and CPR-compliant products, ensuring high-quality standards for industrial and commercial applications. With multiple locations in Ireland, Cleveland Cable offers local support and delivery, making them a reliable supplier for optical cable headers and related infrastructure.

Alltec focuses on large-scale telecommunication and optical fiber networks, providing project management, installation, and testing solutions. They work with major hyper-scale internet companies and are experienced in data center rollouts and high-capacity fiber networks, making them a strong part...
