AI Overview

Key manufacturers of steel wire for optical fiber cables include ETK, Eland Cables, AFL, Bekaert, and ZTT, supplying SWA and OPGW solutions globally. ETK KabloETK is a global supplier of Steel Wire Armoured (SWA) fiber optic cables, which are designed for underground and outdoor installations requiring high mechanical protection. Their SWA cables incorporate steel wire armouring between the inner sheath and outer jacket, providing resistance against crushing, impact, rodent attacks, and environmental stress, making them suitable for long-distance telecommunication backbones and industrial networks. Eland CablesEland Cables offers fiber optic cables with galvanized steel wire (SWA) or corrugated steel tape armour (STA) options. These cables are suitable for both indoor and outdoor applications, including mission-critical installations. Their SWA cables provide mechanical protection while maintaining high bandwidth and data transmission performance. AFL (HexaCore OPGW)AFL manufactures Optical Ground Wire (OPGW) cables, which combine optical fibers with stainless steel and aluminum-clad steel wires. Their HexaCore OPGW design allows high fiber counts in compact cables, suitable for overhead transmission lines and harsh environmental conditions. AFL has been producing OPGW since 1985, supplying high-performance fiber-bearing steel wire solutions. BekaertBekaert produces steel messenger wire and strands for aerial fiber optic cables. Their products meet ASTM standards such as ASTM 475 for metallic-coated steel wire strands and ASTM A228 (music wire) for optical cables. Bekaert offers customized specifications for lashed or built-in aerial optical cables, ensuring mechanical stability and durability.
