

Polish optical module manufacturer

AI Overview

Poland hosts a diverse range of optical and photonics companies, including PCO S.A., Optomer, MST, VIGO Photonics, Solaris Optics, and Opt Lasers, specializing in optoelectronic modules, fiber optics, lasers, and LED systems. Key Companies and Specializations PCO S.A. is the largest Polish producer of optoelectronic devices, offering night vision goggles, thermal imaging systems, laser aiming devices, and other optical modules for military and uniformed services. Their products include the GOD-1 optoelectronic head and PNL series night vision goggles, reflecting over 50 years of R&D experience in laser, thermal, and night vision technologies. Optomer manufactures a wide range of passive optical products, including distribution frames, patch panels, and high-capacity central office cabinets. They also produce fiber optic cable assemblies using hybrid ferrule active core alignment technology, representing Swiss DIAMOND SA in Poland. MST Sp. z o.o. Sp. k. specializes in LED modules compatible with premium optics, providing photometric measurements, safety testing, and certification services. They collaborate with global partners like LEDiL and Arrow Electronics to deliver high-quality LED and optical solutions. VIGO Photonics focuses on photonics modules, particularly MWIR and LWIR detectors, using advanced semiconductor techniques like MOCVD and MBE. They produce high-quality infrared detectors across a wide wavelength range. Solaris Optics is a leading European manufacturer of precision optics, emphasizing innovation and high-quality production equipment for photonics applications. Opt Lasers offers RGB lasers, fiber-coupled laser modules, and custom laser systems for instrumentation, microscopy, and CNC laser engraving, highlighting their expertise in laser-based optical modules. Industry Overview Poland has a growing photonics and optical module sector, with 77 verified optical product manufacturers as of early 2026. These companies provide a wide range of products, including fiber optic components, LED modules, laser systems...
