

Spanish power distribution box supplier

AI Overview

Spain hosts several reputable manufacturers of power distribution boxes, including IDE Electric, Unex, and CIRCUITOS IMPRESOS PROFESIONALES, offering both metal and plastic enclosures for residential, industrial, and commercial applications. Key Manufacturers IDE Electric, S.L. specializes in plastic and metal enclosures for low-voltage electricity distribution and telecommunications. Their products include industrial control boxes, combination units, and cabinets made from high-quality cold-rolled steel or halogen-free plastics. IDE Electric provides customized solutions, supports a wide range of amperages (10–125 A) and voltages (24–500 V), and offers IP44–IP67 protection ratings, suitable for industrial automation and machine tool control applications. Unex focuses on non-metallic thermoplastic cable management systems, distribution boards, enclosures, and waterproof boxes. They serve both industrial and residential sectors, providing solutions compliant with international standards such as IEC, ANSI, and UNE. CIRCUITOS IMPRESOS PROFESIONALES S.A. manufactures electrical distribution equipment, including medium-voltage cells, isolators, and electrical components. They operate in Rubi, Spain, and cater to both national and international markets. IBERAPA produces junction boxes, flush-fit boxes, ICP and power distribution boards, and other electrical installation materials. Based in Massamagrell, Spain, they specialize in residential and telecommunication installations. GRUPO GEMIDI provides services in the electricity distribution equipment sector, including installation and maintenance of distribution panels, based in Fuenlabrada, Spain. Additional Suppliers Other notable Spanish companies include Arteche, which offers high and medium voltage equipment for power generation and distribution, and ORBIS, a leading manufacturer of low-voltage sectioning and protection solutions.
