

Tanzania Export Price of 200kWh Rack-Mounted Lithium-ion Battery Cabinets

AI Overview

The export price of a 200 kWh rack-mounted lithium-ion battery cabinet to Tanzania typically ranges from $80,000 to $120,000 per unit, depending on supplier, chemistry, and shipping terms.

Overview of 200 kWh Lithium-Ion Battery Cabinets

A 200 kWh lithium-ion battery cabinet is a high-capacity energy storage solution designed for industrial, commercial, and grid-scale applications. These systems often use lithium iron phosphate (LFP) modules, offer long cycle life (up to 6000 cycles), and include built-in Battery Management Systems (BMS) for safety and performance monitoring. Rack-mounted designs allow modular scalability, enabling multiple units to be connected in parallel for larger energy storage needs.

Pricing Factors

The export price depends on several factors:

- Battery chemistry and quality: LFP modules are more stable and long-lasting, often commanding higher prices.
- Supplier and manufacturing location: Major suppliers in Asia, particularly China, offer competitive pricing with CE, UN38.3, and IEC certifications.
- Shipping and import duties: Tanzanian import tariffs, port handling, and logistics costs can add 10–20% to the base price.
- Warranty and service: Extended warranties (10–15 years) and maintenance-free designs may increase the upfront cost.

Tanzanian Import Context

Tanzania imports lithium-ion batteries for industrial and commercial use, with detailed import data available through trade databases. This data shows that large-scale battery systems are primarily sourced from Asia, and importers often negotiate bulk pricing for multiple units. The typical unit value for 200 kWh systems aligns with the $80,000–$120,000 range, depending on shipping and customization.

Supplier Examples

- Dawnice: Offers 200 kWh lithium-ion battery packs with 10-year warranties, modular design, and global shipping support.
- HT InfinitePower: Provides high-voltage...
